STRATHMORE LOSES IMPORTANT BUSINESS

RISDON'S MOVING TO CALGARY

A long, well established and valuable business to Strathmore and vicinity for many miles around, is closing out to locate in Calgary.

The Risdon's have gained and merited the reputation for being first class machinists and many intricate pieces of work have been mastered by them that have baffled workers from larger centres.

The increasing demand caused by the war for qualified mechanics has been instrumental in their removal to Calgary, hence Strathmore's loss.

Mr Wm. Risdon came to the Strathmore district in 1910 and engaged in farming.

In 1919, Mrs Risdon who came up from California to visit her parents, the late Mr and Mrs Boissevain, met Mr Risdon which resulted in their marriage that year.

In 1925 Mr Risdon gave up farming to establish the Machine Shop located on the present site, but which has increased in size with the continual development.

The family consists of four sons and three daughters, three of whom are already in Calgary.

The family will remain in Strathmore for some three or four weeks, until they can locate a house in the city.

Mr Risdon was for a number of years a member of the Town Council and Mrs Risdon took an active part in the U. F. W. A.

They have been good citizens, taking an interest in educational, social, and all local affairs that stood for the upbuilding of the community.

Their house has been purchased by Mr and Mrs M. A. Rellinger who with their family will live there in future.

The people of Strathmore and district will regret the Risdon's departure, but will wish them the best in the new field.

"Who Are These Birds Without Wings?"

—Issued by No. 4 Training Command Headquarters, Royal Canadian Air Force, Calgary, Alberta, Public Relations Branch.

Foreword—The 'Aircrew of the Royal Canadian Air Force, that is the Pilot, Observer, Wireless Operator, Gunner and the straight Air Gunner, are known as the "glamour boys" of the Air Force. They undoubtedly earn this title through the thrilling and dangerous nature of their duties. However, little publicity attends the daily deeds of the "ground crews" and yet they are an indispensable unit of the Force.

The pilot trusts the men who service his aircraft. He is well aware that his life and the lives of his crew depend upon the skill and knowledge of the mechanic, the armourer, the electrician, the wireless mechanic, the instrument maker and many others.

ARMOURER (Guns)—

Our Armourer is sleepy this morning. Being on "early party" he and other Armourers are charged with the responsibility of having the Gunner Aircraft "on the line" completely inspected, guns mounted and ammunition ready so that flying will start on time, which is generally daybreak.

During exercises, a gun may break which means returning to the aerodrome and having it replaced. This work is done by the armourer who also takes the broken gun to the section where he locates the reason for the gun refusing to fire. It may be a maladjustment or a minor cause such as a broken firing pin which is replaced and the gun put back into service.

WEDDING

TAYLOR—DAVIDSON

A very pretty but quiet wedding was solemnized at the residence of the Rev. D. W. Locke, on the North Hill, Calgary at six-thirty p.m. May 23, when Miss Isabella Armstrong Davidson, eldest daughter of Mr John Davidson and the late Mrs Davidson, of Strathmore became the bride of Mr John Taylor of Strathmore.

The bride looked charming in an afternoon dress of Delf silk jersey and wore a corsage of pink carnations and sweetpeas. Her accessories were in navy blue. Mrs Frank Taylor of Calgary was matron of honor and chose for the occasion a dusty rose redingote and wore a corsage of pink carnations, with black accessories.

Mr Frank Taylor of Calgary, brother of the groom was best man.

After the wedding ceremony the bridal party adjourned to the York Hotel where a reception was held. Mrs John Taylor, Sr., of Strathmore assisted in receiving the guests. She chose for the occasion a navy blue ensemble with matching accessories and wore a corsage of red carnations.

The toast to the bride was proposed by the groomsmen and ably responded to by the groom. Other toasts were made by Mr Taylor, Sr., and Mr Davidson.

Out of town guests included Mr and Mrs John Taylor, Sr., Mr John Davidson, Mrs A. Brady, and Mr J. S. Gunn all of Strathmore.

The bride and groom have taken up residence in Calgary where Mr Taylor is now employed.

The many friends of the newlyweds will wish them many years of happiness and a pleasant voyage on the sea of matrimony.

A large number of beautiful gifts testified to the esteem in which the young couple are held.

ing brought in for next year until such time as the year distributed to the schools at the last of September.

A report on the recent sports meets showed that five were held, one in each subdivision, and that practically every school in the Division was represented at one of these meets. They were held at Kathryn, Belseker, Swallow, Strathmore and Standard. A great deal of enthusiasm was shown and they were very successful in all cases.

TRAILED BY GERMAN GESTAPO NOT PLEASANT EXPERIENCE

This is the 16th in the series of articles describing a trip to Britain last September and October. The writer, Hugh Templin, editor of the Fergus News-Record, represented the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association and the stories are written exclusively for the weekly newspapers of Canada.

I'll never forget the night we left Ireland behind and flew away toward Portugal in the largest seaplane I ever saw, the good ship "Berwick," which later became famous when it carried Winston Churchill back over the Atlantic from Bermuda to Britain.

We left the peaceful little village of Adare, in Southern Ireland, about ten o'clock on Friday night, driving by bus along the winding, walled roads, through a couple more tiny hamlets, and down one last hill to the seacoast. Once again, there was a hurried session in the little customs house, though no baggage was opened for inspection. One more entry was made in our passports, and we filed out on the pier and down a shabby gangplank to the launch.

It all seemed strange to me that night. There I was in Ireland, where I had never expected to be. Behind us on the hills, lights shone in the few houses, not exactly what we had become accustomed to during a month in England, where everything would have been black. On the pier a powerful searchlight swung around picking out at times the shape of the big winged boat out on the estuary, throwing its black shadow on the cliff behind until it looked like two ships, one grey and one black.

One launch had gone out with the mail and I climbed into another with a dozen fellow passengers. One or two loads had already gone aboard. The bay was rough and our launch went out beyond the seaplane, drifting back past it. The crew missed the rope thrown from the plane and tried again. The second time they had better luck and we climbed aboard the big float which is a part of the body of the plane and down through the narrow door.

The interior looked familiar. This was another Boeing plane, similar to the Clippers by which I had crossed the Atlantic some weeks before. Even the pattern on the tapestry that covered the walls was the same. But this was a later model and larger.

There were no berths for the passengers that night. There wasn't room for them. We were packed in too closely, and we sat up all night in the comfortable seats. After we rose from the water, there were no lights either. The plane was to fly down opposite the unfriendly coast of France, always in danger from enemy raiders, and the only safe way to go was in the dark. And even that wasn't too safe, as we all realized. So we sat sprawled around in all sorts of queer shapes, trying to sleep—and having some success at that.

Aboard the Berwick—

I don't think Pan American Airways would have tried to fly a Clipper on a night like that. The waves were high and the wind was offshore. That made it necessary to go away out into the estuary and taxi toward the land, with the ship gaining height fast enough to clear the range of low hills. Besides, the plane had a heavy load. Three times, the Captain tried before he finally lifted off the waves and into the air. Each time, he went farther out into the open ocean.

I sat at the little window and looked out at the waves, thrilled beyond anything I had known on the trip before. I could see two of the four huge motors and the long wing with a green light out near the tip. The waves splashed up over the window when the motors speeded up. Twice the waves were so high they came up over the wingtip, obscuring the green light. Then we turned towards land, and there was a louder roar, and I could feel the slap-slap of the wave on the bottom of the ship growing less violent and finally disappearing, and we were in the air.

The great ship circled towards the south. The wingtip light and all the interior lights went out. Down below, little Irish villages and the City of Limerick showed through the clouds. For Ireland has no blackout. Minutes later, there were two or three light-houses, and the moon shining on the open sea, then nothing more but clouds for hours and hours.

Lisbon From the Air—

Lisbon, as seen from the air, is one of the most beautiful of cities. The Berwick arrived over the mouth of the Tagus River just before the sun came up over the hills behind Lisbon. (The interior of Portugal is quite mountainous in spots). Down below, a large fleet of fishing boats could be seen on the Atlantic, mostly little sailing ships, but a few steam trawlers. Then there was Estoril, the health resort at the mouth of the river, and then Lisbon set on several hills. A new airport was being built outside the city, with broad modern roads leading to it, in contrast to the narrow lanes of the city itself. An Oriental cemetery with little tombs inside a high wall provided a sad touch. Twice the ship lirked the city, losing height, and came down on the river beside a Pan American Clipper, preparing to leave in a few hours. "How nice it would be," I thought, "to transfer from one plane to the other, without even bothering to go ashore." But wartime travel isn't that easy in Europe.

Lisbon is one of the most romantic cities in the world at present. It's a poor magazine that hasn't had some story dealing with Lisbon and its refugees, its spies, the German Gestapo and such like. There has been a whole series of moving pictures about Lisbon, such as "One Night in Lisbon," "The Lady Has Plans," and "Affectionately Yours." The general idea seems to be that anything can happen in Lisbon. I believe that is true—anything can happen there, and most of it does happen. Some of the things that have happened are probably more exciting than anything the fiction writers have produced. But alas! Some of the true stories must be kept secret until after the war.

I didn't see much of Lisbon the first time I was there, but on the return trip, I saw far too much, and I do not care if I never see Portugal again. Even when peace comes again, I think I would decline an invitation.

SUGAR RATION Now 1/2 LB.

Since sugar rationing was first introduced, the shipping situation has become more serious. The danger to ships and lives has increased. Consequently it has now become necessary to reduce the sugar ration from 3/4 lb. to 1/2 lb. per week per person. Only persons in areas remote from source of supply are permitted to have more than two weeks' supply on hand at any time.

SUGAR FOR PRESERVING

Special provision is made for additional quantities of sugar for home preserving and canning.

In addition to your ration, you may purchase 1/2 lb. of sugar for every pound of fruit that you preserve or can, and 3/4 lb. of sugar for every pound of fruit made into jam or jelly.

Every person who buys sugar for canning or preserving is required to keep an accurate record of the sugar purchased for this purpose. If any sugar remains after canning and preserving, it shall form part of the regular ration of 1/2 lb. per person per week.

LIONS CLUB MEETING

Thursday night the Strathmore Lions were honored with a visit from the District Governor, Phil Baker of Lethbridge, who gave a very interesting talk on what The Lions' Club in Canada and the United States were doing in War Work. He stressed very strongly the work done for the children in England whose homes have been bombed.

Lion Phil was accompanied by the Lions Male Quartette, which won great honors, not only for themselves but for the Lethbridge Club at New Orleans last year. The Quartette is taking part in Edmonton at the District Convention in June, also expects to go to Toronto to the International Convention in July.

Great credit is due Mrs Brown who has trained this quartette and is also their accompanist.

Lion Pat Brown was elected secretary to take the place of Lion Chuck MacLean who has enlisted and Lion G. B. Anderson was elected treasurer in place of Lion Fred Holmes, who has been transferred to Cranbrook.

Mercury is produced in the Pinchi Lake area of Northern B. C.

Miss Sidam warmly thanked the ladies for their lovely gifts and good wishes. There were 32 guests present.

TEA AND COFFEE ARE RATIONED

Ships and lives must be conserved

To bring tea from Ceylon and India, to bring coffee from South America, ships must cross oceans infested with submarines. Today those ships and their naval escorts are required for more essential services. Every ship, every foot of cargo space, is needed to carry war materials, and to bring essential goods to Canada.

So Canadians must now reduce their consumption of tea and coffee. You must reduce your normal consumption of tea by at least a half. You must reduce your normal consumption of coffee by at least one fourth. These reductions are absolutely necessary.

TEA CONSUMPTION MUST BE CUT AT LEAST IN HALF

COFFEE CONSUMPTION MUST BE CUT AT LEAST ONE FOURTH

THIS IS THE LAW

You must not buy more than 2 weeks' supply of tea or coffee for yourself and household in any one week.

You must not make further purchases of tea or coffee at any time when you have two weeks' supply on hand at the reduced ration. (Exception: those in areas remote from supply.)

Retailers have the right to limit or refuse customers' orders if they suspect the law is not being kept. Retailers must not have on hand more than one month's supply of tea and coffee, whether packaged or bulk.

There are heavy penalties for violations of this law.

Conscription Of Wealth With Conscription Of Man Power

THESE are two of the main planks in the platform of the Canadian Legion Convention meeting this week in Winnipeg.

The C. C. F. also has consistently endorsed this plan. It is the only fair one.

Why should the value of human life be placed at a lower strata than the dollar?

When these conditions are made just, there will be no need for talk of conscription of man power.

Rehabilitation is also another strong plank that merits an all out planning.

the same thing will happen here.

Don't be surprised if the market basket comes back, and the housewife walks down town, does her shopping with basket over her arm and carries home her unwrapped purchases.

Don't be surprised if the sugar ration is further cut. Don't be surprised if transportation is cut down. Don't be surprised if your defence taxes are doubled. Don't be surprised if conscription extends to women and work in war factories become compulsory.

Don't, in fact, be surprised at anything which may happen in the next few months. We're in the war and we are in it to win. We haven't begun to touch the fringe of sacrifices as yet. We've been asking what we can do to help. The answer is to carry out the rationing orders of the government and to do a little better than the Government asks. It's your plain duty to do so. —Lethbridge Herald.

WHAT WAS THE EMPIRE'S FAILURE?

(Editorial from Liberty Magazine May 9th, 1942).

These are dangerous times. They are times when it is peculiarly urgent that people should think clearly and sanely before they speak. Yet there people who, because of some setbacks and shortcomings, have been ready to voice the ill-considered opinion that the British Empire has seen its day. They base that assumption on the feeling it has not proved the invulnerable bulwark we once thought it. That it never was nor could be invulnerable, as so many blindly assumed, has escaped them altogether.

Let those who are so ready to speak of an Empire's failure stop to remember that, whatever its shortcomings, it had the vitality in our time to save a world. That much is not debatable. That much must be set to its credit. If it did not always achieve what we who believed it invincible had hoped, it still did stand alone, the only champion of the liberties of a world. It did survive, and it did save those liberties.

If there are people who must focus their eyes on Hong Kong and Singapore, let them also remember Dunkirk and its availing courage, the long cavalry of London, the simple valour of Coventry, the continuing martyrdom of Malta, the thousand and one heroic stories that, like the record of the Jervis Bay, have made these days immortal. If there are flaws in our pattern of Empire, these stories are its warp and woof. Who would turn his back on an Empire in whose veins runs such blood?

The Empire that its detractors are berating is a form of Empire that is already dead. The evidence of that is all about us—in unifying commands, in Pacific Conferences, in the struggle to find a basis for political freedom for other great sections of our own body politic. But we do not speak of an Empire of the British races alone. It is an empire of United Nations, securing the rights of less fortunate peoples, giving them equality, confidence, security. It is the fulfillment of the four freedoms.

Surely after the bitter lessons of these years of war we know now that we live in a world, not in a country. Surely when the great proponent of a different viewpoint is moving swiftly and irrevocably into world responsibilities, it is idle for us to turn back. Empires there must be until all men are free and equal and all men are secure, and the obligation laid on all of us is not mean or narrow or selfishly national. If we believe in freedom and decency we must be partners with every one who so believes. These things the Empire that is our heritage has protected for us in the past. Are we to leave it now when we can help to make that ideal a still more vital and living force?

The British Empire can break or dissolve in this war, and the world will be the loser; or it can grow in influence and power and an ability to serve a world. Those who talk glibly and carelessly of casting it aside will be casting aside with it the last and best hope of a world co-operation that may spare us another war.

Hanna's War Charities Rodeo June 3rd

Heralded by the inspiring slogan of "Ride for Freedom," the first Hanna Rodeo on June 3rd promises to be one of the most thrilling and colorful events in this part of the country in many years. To justify this slogan, half of the net proceeds will go to war charities, and the theme of the day's events will portray the freedom of the west and stress its desire to maintain that freedom. This blends with the spirit that urges Canada's total war effort, and in addition to offering patrons the best in rodeo entertainment, they will be helping to provide means for the essential work done by charitable organizations.

The management hopes that many will accept this invitation to join the holiday crowd at Hanna on June 3 and cheer the boys as they "ride for freedom."

His work, however, does not stop here. He may be detailed to supervise the ground range where perhaps half a dozen machine guns are being fired by students who have not reached the air-firing stage. He may be given a gun to test and forthwith he mounts it in an aircraft and flies off to the range to reports back fully on the gun's behaviour.

Power operated turrets must also be looked after by the Armourer and he must be familiar with the entire hydraulic system and may be called on for adjustment, repairs, harmonization of the guns or installation of sights.

Ammunition is part of the Armourer's responsibility. He must see to the loading of ammunition drums and belts and the testing of same. One might have the impression that if weather is unfavorable for flying, the armourer should have an easy time. Such is not the case as a great deal of his work is routine. Guns must be inspected by completely dismantling the entire mechanism and checking each individual part thoroughly after so many rounds have been fired. This, in addition to the cleaning and inspection after each day's firing. Ammunition must be tested and if it has remained in storage for a certain length of time it must receive a firing test. Guns sights must be checked and harmonized and countless other jobs keep him occupied.

If sent overseas the Armourer finds his work a great deal more interesting. Working on high-speed combat planes, the turrets on huge bombers and feeling the thrill of actually taking a part in the fighting. The ideal Armourer takes a keen interest in his job, and being interested, he is "happy in the service," proud of his skill and knowledge and of his value to the Force.

Indian Youth — (1)
Oh, there are things I surely understand
Better than any white man in the land!

I know the evening sky, the westerning heat . . .

Why should I live distinct from you apart

From the white magic which has made your cities?

Why should I be a wait your custom pities?

I am as wise as you; an Indian, yes. But I have known the same desiring stress,

The same attachment, wonder, worship, doubt,

Which none of you, though white, can live without.

Freed now from medicine-men, who held my mind

To many superstitions of my kind, I would know white kind, live as well as you.

I would do all things that white men do.

White Elder — (11)
Come then and learn of us; though first I say

Few white men can receive and use the day

And night as simply, wisely and as well

As your folk can. But which of us shall tell

Whose way is better:— to reveal the good

In pine-clad bodies, and by feathered rods,

To test man's temples with a buffalo-horn;

Or, louder than a thunder-bird is borne,

To match machinery against the sky

For proof that humankind was made to die,

To send man up with steel and wheel and fire,

His wisdom lower but his knowledge higher

In ways of ritual and sacrifice? . . .

Oh, let us face each other and think twice:

("Man to Man" by Witter Bynner).

Barley for Choice Bacon

Bacon which is relished by the British consumer can only come from the right kind of hogs fed in the right way. That consumer happens to be Canada's best customer for this commodity. No matter how ideal the type may be, a hog will not yield good bacon unless it receives the right kind of feed. Which of the common grains is the best feed for bacon hogs has been the subject of a series of interesting tests conducted by Dr. R. W. Crampton, animal nutrition expert at Macdonald College, Quebec. The work was carried on under the auspices of the National Barley and Flax Committee. Western grains were used in the experiments. His first test was designed to determine the relative feeding values of barley, oats and corn. Barley was shown to be definitely superior to either oats or corn, whether rate of gain, efficiency of feed or carcass quality were measured. Oats resulted in slower gain and unfinished carcasses. Corn fed hogs were consistently degraded because the carcasses were oily, soft, and overinflated.

The next test was made to compare the feeding values of barley and wheat. This was suggested by the Barley Committee because of the surplus of wheat and the rapidly expanding swine industry in the prairie provinces. The results of this test showed that barley fed hogs yielded more suitable carcasses, but those getting wheat made faster gains. These results would suggest that wheat and barley should make an ideal combination to secure maximum efficiency of feeding, and at the same time obtain high quality. This is precisely what Dr. Crampton proposes to study in a test now in progress.

In the meantime, farmers are being urged to grow more barley to feed more hogs, which are needed in Canada's expanding war program.—Contributed by T. B. Pickering.

WORLD OF WHEAT

By H. G. L. Strange
Director—"The Crop Testing Plan"

90 CENT WHEAT IS NOT A "HAND OUT"

The active campaign waged by friends of our prairie wheat growers for a fair price for wheat is now a thing of the past. The Government has raised the price from 70 cents to 90 cents for 1 Northern at Fort William. Something of a campaign, however, is being waged in Eastern Canada resenting even the payment of this very modest price per bushel. Western farmers are being designated as "living on the East", as being "greedy"; they are being accused of receiving a 116 million dollar "hand-out", which the East, in the main, it is said will have to pay.

The truth is, and all farmers should remember this, that there is no "hand out" at all on 90 cent wheat, for the Government should easily be able to sell the wheat they purchase for at least this same 90 cents. At this price the people will have cheap flour and bread, and importing countries will buy cheap wheat. At 90 cents a bushel, wheat, flour and bread are still by far the cheapest foods in the world. The Government, therefore, should lose nothing by giving farmers 90 cents a bushel for wheat at Fort William, which is 70 cents at the average country point. Industrial labour, paid mainly in the end by the Government, is receiving relatively a far far greater reward.

KITCHEN KINKS

HERE'S AN EASY WAY TO KEEP BEEF—

During warm weather, if beef is to be kept in the home for a day or two before being cooked, it is a wise precaution, particularly if the refrigerator is not of the best, to adopt the treatment known as "marinating". The process consists of preparing a marinade, or preservative mixture, made of blending vinegar or lemon juice with olive, corn, or other vegetable oil in the proportion of one part vinegar to two or three parts oil. A little pepper or dash of mustard may be added if desired.

Place the meat in a covered earthenware dish, not a metal dish on account of the acid, and thoroughly coat the beef with the marinade, which may be applied handily with a pastry brush. Rub well into the crevices of the meat. This process not only protects the meat from the air and helps to preserve it, but the acid makes it more tender and the oil improves the flavor. If the marinade is intended only for softening the fibres and making the meat more tender, the proportions of the mixture should be reversed, that is, two or three parts of vinegar to one part of oil.

UNIVERSITY FARM
YOUNG PEOPLE'S WEEK

JUNE 4-11—
Eight full days of education, recreation and entertainment are now being planned for the 21st Annual Farm Young People's week at the University of Alberta. For 23 years, this very successful short course has been sponsored by the Department of Extension and the Faculty of Agriculture. In the years that are past, more than one young farm boy or girl attending this course during the month of June when the campus is at its loveliest, has felt an aching desire to further their education by attending the university as a regular student. Later, they have been able to realize this ambition.

Over $250 in scholarships and prizes are awarded in competitions for grain and livestock judging, public speaking, exhibitions of handicrafts, and for a reading course. In regard to the latter, prospective students are advised to start on this course now, so they will have sufficient time to complete the reading. Scholarships include a course at the School of Agriculture at Oids.

Trips are being arranged to the Parliament Buildings, industrial plants and other points of interest. On Saturday, June 6th, the Department of Animal Husbandry will hold its annual Feeders' Day to present the results of their livestock experiments to the farmers of the province.

Students will live on the university campus, at a rate of $12 for room, board and registration fee. Special transportation rates are available from the bus lines.

The course which is open to all rural young people between 16 and 27 years of age, starts on June 4th and closes on June 11th, 1942. Further particulars may be obtained from the Director, Department of Extension, University of Alberta, Edmonton.

NIGHTINGALE

By M. H.

Miss Myrtle Stoodley spent a few days in Calgary the guest of her sister Mrs Risdon.

Congratulations go to Jack Stoodley who is now Lance Corporal. He likes his job and is very well, and anxious to see things move along.

The ladies of the local Women's Institute entertained the Berta Vale Serviceberry Institute at the hall last Friday. Mrs Larson acted as chairman and introduced Rev. Pearson who was present and delivered a splendid talk on the Red Cross. He emphasized the need of support to this splendid work. He explained its origin and its purpose and made it very clear that the Red Cross reaches where governments cannot, as in the case of sending parcels to prisoners of war. A question period followed the address and one point was stressed. It seems there are various reports of abuse of goods but in nearly every case these reports were without foundation when investigated. A heartily vote of thanks followed and a delicious tea was served. A silver collection was taken and turned over to the Red Cross. Mrs Perry, Mrs Thurston and Mrs Gene Groulx were welcome visitors.

Valley Gardens—

A pleasant evening was spent at Valley Gardens school last Friday as a follow up of a rubber drive. Albert Techritter and Wm. Jansen were captains of two teams and each side piled up rubber sometimes one and then the other was in the lead. However as a result of this contest about 2 tons of rubber are ready for the government. Congratulations go to Mr Trimble as leader and to all the pupils as workers. Community singing with Mrs Thurston at the piano and Mr Trimble as leader was much enjoyed. The Kenney orchestra also entertained with popular selections. The local orchestra furnished music for dancing. Next Friday patrons are requested to bring papers and rags, and enjoy another social evening. A white elephant sale netted $3.20 for the milk for Britain fund. Bring your papers and rags and help make this another success.

Miss Rosalie Slonaker and Kathleen Harriman enjoyed their Victoria Day holiday with their families.

ROCKYFORD

— By K. M. G. —

Mr and Mrs A. J. Cammaert were able to make the trip to Edmonton for the annual convocation ceremony of the University students, when their eldest daughter Edna Marie Louise, graduated from her third year in Nursing. She also was one of two to receive the honor of highest standing in Practical Work in Senior year. There was an exceptionally large class of graduating students and the McDougall Church auditorium was filled to overflowing with friends and relatives. Over 1000 in all were able to attend the exercises.

Miss Wanda Knapp who is now on the Telephone Staff in Calgary has been having her holidays, part of which she is spending at her aunt's Mrs G. Porteous.

The Regina Leader— Taking up where he left off on the Rugby field, speedy Don Dahm, student at Campion College, Regina, and son of Mr and Mrs J. J. Dahm of Rockyford, continued to let the other fellow eat his dust, when he walked off with practically all the Senior boys events, to win the individual aggregate championship in Campion annual track and field meet. In taking the title Dahm took six firsts and one second to give himself the grand total of 28 points, which was 10 greater than his nearest opponent, Fred Kamuka. In the 220 yard dash Dahm took the lead from the start and was breezing into the home stretch when Kamuka put on a great burst of speed which brought him up even with his rival and he passed him to win by the closest of margins. Dahm placed first in the 100 yard dash, the 440 yard dash, the mile race, hop, step and jump, running broad jump and relay race, and second in the 220 yard dash.

We are glad to see Mrs Reish home again after her recent illness and back in her place at the Post office.

Mr and Mrs T. M. Henderson wish to announce that they are the proud grandparents of an 8 lb. baby girl, Anne Wells, born to Mr and Mrs Robt Arthur Shaw of Silver Spring, Maryland, which is just outside of Washington, D. C. Both Helen and baby are doing nicely.

Mrs J. Wallis Gibson and two small sons Robert and Ralph arrived on Wednesday, May the 20th from Vancouver to visit with her parents Mr and Mrs R. L. Stone, and her mother-in-law Mrs Gibson. She came early to be here with her brother Bob Stone for a short time before he leaves on Tuesday to take up his training at Edmonton with the R. C. A. F. In the Radio Dept. Sergt. Gibson will have his leave early in June and expects to join his wife and family here then.

Mr and Mrs R. L. Stone have as guests over the week end and holiday Mr and Mrs Geo. Hindson and Miss Betty Wright all of Calgary.

The summer resorts are beginning to claim holidayers from Rockyford. Mr and Mrs Ed Griffiths are taking a few days at Pine Lake.

Mr Chas. Bradwell is having the pleasure of a visit from his mother. She has been in Calgary for a short time and will leave from here later for her home in Saskatoon.

Mr and Mrs Bush had most of their family home over the week end and holiday. Patty, Bob and Weldon and his wife and baby, Herbie who is in the Air Force is somewhere on the west coast.

Mr and Mrs Ed McLean and family of Nanton spent the holiday week end at the home of J. A. Wise and renewing acquaintances with their many friends in and around Rockyford.

The wedding of Mr Bertie Wyman and Miss Welsagaber was solemnized at Schuler on Monday, May 25th.

A very successful Track Meet of the section of the larger school district over which Mr Wagler is trustee was held at Rockyford on Thursday, May 21st. Over 100 children were in attendance with most of the parents also present. All the events were well contested to make a full day. One event which marred the closing hour of the otherwise wonderful day, was when Howard Myrkie, 7 year old son of Mr and Mrs Ned Myrkie, fell from a teeter and ran a large silver into his face, just below the eye. His father was able to remove the splinter and he was taken to Strathmore where Dr. John Giffen gave him medical attention. Last reports are that by L. McL.

In honour of the Misses Jeanette and Renie Cramer, brides-elect of late spring and early summer, a delightful shower was held at the home of Mrs McLean. The spacious rooms were tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers and wedding bells. During the afternoon a merry contest was held in which everyone took part, followed by a mock wedding ceremony with Mrs Welshimer, Mrs Drake and Mrs Russell participating, very ably assisted by Mrs Chess Barber. On behalf of all the ladies present and others who could not attend little Miss Doris Welshimer and Miss Evelyn Russell appropriately dressed as miniature bride and groom presented the guests of honour with a number of beautiful gifts. After a very nice little speech made by both the girls a delicious lunch was served. Mrs Cramer, mother of the guests of honour presided at the tea table which was centred with a bouquet of pink sweet peas and maiden hair fern. A very enjoyable afternoon was had by all.

Berta Vale - Serviceberry Women's Institute

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs C. Way on May 21. There were 14 members and 5 visitors present. A letter was read from Sgt. W. H. Backs of the RCAF overseas, thanking our W. I. for the cigarettes we sent him. The ladies are sending another dollar's worth of cigarettes to each of the three men from this district serving overseas. It was decided that each member not answering the roll call should be fined five cents.

After the business of the meeting, Mrs G. Thurston, Constituency Convener, gave a report of the W. I. Conference held in Lethbridge in February.

We are pleased to welcome another new member, Mrs Shktratoff. Please note— The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs Strubbe on June 4th.

WEDDINGS

JOHNS — DUNN

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Stephen's Church, Calgary on Saturday, May 23rd, at 7 p.m. when Eileen Jeanette Dunn, daughter of Mr and Mrs F. Cramer of Chedoke became the bride of Sgt. Frank Johns, R.C.A.F., son of Mrs Wm. Johns of Toronto.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was lovely in a gown of white chiffon made on flowing lines with round neckline and long sleeves. Her halo veil was caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of pink Briardale roses.

Her sister Miss Renie Dunn, the maid of honor, wore powder blue chiffon with bishop sleeves and carried coral gladioli. Mrs Verna Barber, the other bridesmaid, wore yellow net over taffeta and carried pink gladioli. Their matching hats were made in cart wheel fashion.

The groom was supported by Sgt. Campbell and Sgt. W. Abbot and Pte. G. Carlin were the ushers.

Raedeke of Mount Calvary Church, Calgary.

This date marks a double celebration within the family, as had Mr C. Christensen's parents still been living (the groom's grandparents) it would have been their Diamond Wedding anniversary.

The bride's dress was fashioned from Queen Anne cloth in Maifona blue, very simply trimmed with wide lace of the same shade.

With this she wore a corsage of red roses. The bridesmaid was Miss Hope Christensen, sister of the groom, who and Mrs Cecil Lambert were the lucky prize winners. All enjoyed a happy afternoon.

Mr Don Thomas of Medicine Hat will be in charge at the local C. P. R. depot during Mr Perry's absence on holidays.

The groom was supported by his elder brother Myron Christensen.

The bride's mother and the groom's mother each wore a corsage of white gardenias, the gift of the groom.

The groom's gifts to the bridesmaid and groomsmen was to each a Waterman pen and pencil set, and his gift to the bride a handsome leather travelling case.

In addition to their other gifts, the young couple were surprised after the ceremony by a joint gift from the Christensen family consisting of a beautiful chest of silver.

After the ceremony, the wedding party sat down to a turkey dinner. The table centred by a three tier wedding cake, made by the bride's mother and decorated by Mrs Keeling of Strathmore.

Other than the members of the two immediate families, the guests were the bride's grandmother Mrs G. Bamforth of Redcliff, the bride's cousin, Miss Colleen Jacobson also of Redcliff, Rev. W. A. Raedeke and Mrs Raedeke.
